“Not only does Prix Galien serve as a vehicle for publicly recognizing the initiative of private enterprise in developing new cures and treatments, it also has a policy mission that is attractive to other stakeholders outside industry, especially the international community.”

- Professor Elie Wiesel, 1986 Nobel Peace Prize laureate and member of the Prix Galien selection committee

THE PRIX GALIEN MISSION

The Prix Galien is more than an award: it is a movement with a mandate to foster, recognize and reward excellence in scientific innovation to improve the state of human health. Building on an unrivaled network of Nobel laureates in medicine, and with the ethical leadership of Peace Prize winner Professor Elie Wiesel, the Prix Galien manages an independent, cross-functional and geographically diverse program of events and sponsorships to brand the “the best of the best” in new medicines and diagnostics.

Our scope is global, and our commitment to progress in medicine is both measurable and concrete. Our members express this through the establishment of productive relationships to build lasting bridges between the commercial research enterprise and local communities engaged in public policy, science, finance, academic research and the media. In addition to recognizing advances in promising therapies, the Prix Galien’s annual Pro Bono award for humanitarian achievements brings a unique focus to the intersection between science, business and politics. The outcome we seek is guided by the synthesis principle that underpins the conduct of science itself: successful innovation, where financing, physical assets, knowledge and skills are combined from many sources to move new ideas quickly “from the bench to the bedside,” on behalf of patients everywhere.

A TRULY GLOBAL PROGRAM

Our program includes a review of contributions from a new generation of innovators representing diverse sectors in health as well as from the emerging markets of the developing world. Our theme: better cross cultural contacts, harmonized regulation, internal business process improvements, new information technologies, and effective public-private partnerships can remove barriers to the commercialization of good medicines and expand access to these benefits to all who need them.

2011 will represent a new and exciting stage in the evolution of the Prix Galien as the pre-eminent “force populaire” behind the global scientific enterprise. With the support of our sponsoring organizations, our efforts will extend to all who see medical innovation not only as an industrial policy asset but as a source of social progress – where private enterprise and public engagement combine to deliver a greater public good.

We invite all communities with a commitment to the conduct and promotion of life sciences innovation to contribute to this important work.

Who was Galen?

Born in 131AD, Galen (Galen in French) is considered the father of modern medicine and pharmacology. As an anatomist, physiologist, clinician and researcher, his work formed the basis of a school of thought known as “Galenism”, which dominated medicine until the Renaissance. In fact, Galen’s works were used as primary medical reference for nearly two centuries.

Raised in Pergamos, he studied in Smyrna, Corinth, and Alexandria, the three centers of medical excellence in the ancient world. Legend has it that Galen was visited by Aesclapius in a dream and that this inspired the direction of his life. When he was 17, Galen worked as a physician to the gladiatorial school. At the age of 37, Marcus Aurelius summoned him to Rome, where he grew in reputation and stature as a healer, teacher, researcher and writer. His ideas on the functioning of the human body were so well received that he became the personal doctor of young Commodus, the heir to the Emperor. He died in 201AD. During his long and eminent career, Galen completed over five hundred learned works addressing anatomy, physiology, pathology, medical theory and practice, and many forms of therapy. He traveled throughout the world, studying local plants and remedies, eventually describing 473 original drugs and many substances of mineral and vegetable origin.

Importantly, Galen was the first to codify the art of preparing active drugs using multiple ingredients. Galen’s faculties of observation, logic and deduction made him the true successor of Hippocrates, and his declaration that the primary aim of medicine was patient care formed the very cornerstone of modern pharmacy. To quote Jean-Pierre Changeux, “Galen first showed that our mind was in the brain, not in our hearts.” It can be said that this was the beginning of experimental medicine.
The Prix Galien USA committee, a distinguished body of scientists including seven Nobel Prize laureates, will judge which among the candidates, independent of any category, is the Best Pharmaceutical Agent (i.e. small molecule), is the Best Biotechnology Product and which is the Best Medical Technology approved by the FDA in the past ten years. As few as one or as many as three prizes may be awarded in each of these categories, and from time to time the committee may decide on awards hors prix. The prizes are awarded for products and agents that improve the human condition.

MEDAL BY ALBERT DE JAEGER

The Prix Galien medal was designed by Albert de Jaeger (1908 – 1992), laureate of the Premier Grand Prix de Rome architectural prize. De Jaeger designed medals for prominent figures such as Pope Pius XII (at the Villa Medicis, 1937) and Pope Jean-Paul I, Presidents Dwight D. Eisenhower and John F. Kennedy, distinguished military leaders including Marshals Leclerc, Koenig, Montgomery, Marshall and Joukov; the Weizmann Institute, as well as numerous artists, literary figures and prominent personalities such as Sacha Guitry, Marcel Proust, Henri de Montherlant, Paul Harris, a number of Nobel Prize laureates, the Empress of Iran SA Farah Diba, Princess Grace of Monaco, and others…

De Jaeger is also the architect of numerous outstanding monuments in France and throughout the world.
The mission of the Galien Foundation is to serve as a vehicle for the open exchange of ideas that drive science and new innovations. Our second major forum will be held at the Alexandria Center for Life Science on the morning of September 27, 2011, and will feature round table debates focusing on critical, global healthcare issues and challenges.

As a sponsor of the Prix Galien, your company will have an array of opportunities to network with global healthcare decision makers, policy makers, academicians, and the Prix Galien committee. Collaboration with the Prix Galien allows you to participate in and impact the discussions as a thought leader around the most critical global healthcare issues.

Among the topics debated at the 2010 Galien Forum:

- The Changing Landscape of Pharmacovigilance: The Impact on Medical Innovation and Human Health
- Biomedical Innovation: Funding Challenges and Developing Public/Private Partnership Incentives
- Translational Neuroscience: Academic-Industrial Collaborations in CNS Diseases

Our annual gala awards dinner is a creative recognition of the productive and positive power of partnerships that drive progress in medical science. It is peer exchange with a public purpose - with a diverse range of opportunities for contact with a range of interests, from professional and scientific groups, academia and governments to patient associations, other non-profit organizations and the media.
The Governing Council of the Galien Foundation convenes three times a year in the presence of Prix Galien USA Honorary Member, Professor Elie Wiesel. At each of these crucial meetings, a maximum of fifteen decision makers (CEOs, Directors of R&D, economists, political leaders…), gather to debate and reflect upon critical healthcare issues in the United States, and internationally. These meetings are not recorded, and no minutes are taken, with the aim of allowing each participant to express his opinions as freely as possible.

- Participation of your CEO or top executive in two sessions with the Governing Council of the Galien Foundation
- Input in round table topic selection
- Exclusivity in your field for hosting a round table
- 70 day passes
- Participation in the official Prix Galien press conference
- Dedicated relationship manager
- Updated participant lists with contact details
- Private meeting room
- Hosting the lunch
